Hyden, Ky., July 20.—Farris Feltner killed Sharon Ross in a street duel. They were opponents in the French Everlast feud, and this may easily now revive the old feud. Ross was engaged in Feltner's sister.

A SAD CASE

A HESTITUTE WOMAN IS AF- FORDED SOME RELIEF BY A KIND HEARTED MAGISTRATE.

A case of the inexorable landlord, the class often seen in the press, has come to light. A woman wholly destitute of resources and encumbered with the care and support of three small children, one of whom is at the point of death, resides in the north end of the city. She has had the county physician attending the child, and he says it is a matter of a short time until the child will die. In this sad plight a suit of ejection was filed by the landlord who seeks to put the woman out of doors because she is a little behind in the house rent. The woman comes from one of the very best families and is well educated.

She has no one to depend on and when she informed the kind-hearted magistrate, in whose court the suit was filed, of her condition and of the circumstances he continued the suit for several days in the hopes that something to alter or remit the case may turn up.

THE TEMPERATURE.

YESTERDAY IT WENT TO 101. NO RAIN IN PROSPECT.

Yesterday afternoon the temperature went to 101 in the shade, two degrees warmer than it was at 2 o'clock. This morning the temperature was 75, the same as yesterday, and there is no rain in prospect yet.

DOING WELL AT METROPOLIS. Pritchett and Mason, the two young men now in jail at Metropolis for the shooting of Constable Grant Rankin at Brookport several weeks ago, according to last reports are doing well and it is thought they will be able to appear for the trial in the August term of circuit court. Pritchett did the shooting and will go rather hard with him. He is not convicted to the general public and the session will be held open. All caring to attend are invited.

For indignation there is nothing for the above charges he will be taken that equals Winslow's Laxative Phosphate.

The Illinois Central wrecker was sent out early this morning to Galveston where a loaded freight car, train No. 152, had become derailed. No one was injured in the accident, but the train was delayed for some time by the accident.

The Illinois Central pay car arrived here this afternoon from the St. Louis division and all the local employees are rejoicing. This is the first time with many months where the pay car has come on Saturday and the merchants will have all the trade they can attract to.

Superintendent H. F. Wallace has issued an order to prohibit any others than Palmer, Wilkerson and Kirby, the transfer men, to back their trucks to the depot platform near the depot proper. The other truck drivers have to keep past a certain line about half the distance of the depot platform. This was done presumably to enable the above firm to get all their trucks together so that the passengers can avoid confusion in getting into the right trucks. The firm has the exclusive privilege to operate one of the trains and since they have been working the trains to trouble or mistakes raising inconvenience to the passengers have occurred.

Mr. Chas. Morris, Master Mechanic Barton's chief clerk, is now in Dawson and will return to this city Monday and resume his duties. He has been down in Jackson, Tenn., but passed through the city Wednesday afternoon en route to the springs.

Roadmaster P. Galvin was in the city today.

Cleve McMillen of the Gistman is on the sick list.

Reduced rates have been allowed by Central Passenger lines for the following meetings: Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Detroit, July 21-23; Grand Council Ret. Men, New York, September 9-11; German Catholic Central Varein, Bridgeport, Conn., September 8-12; International Association Fire Engineers, Indianapolis, August 25-28; Catholic Order of Brothers, Detroit, August 12-17; National Socialistic convention, Indianapolis, July 29-August 3.

Railroad switchmen throughout the country are said to be planning a general demand for an increase in wages. The employes of this department of the transportation business desire to have all lines adopt what is known as the "Chicago scale," which is the highest paid anywhere. At several important points requests for an advance to this standard have been made, and it is reported that the switchmen's union is preparing to inaugurate a general campaign to induce railroads to pay this schedule wherever a switch engine is employed.

It is said that the switchmen will not attempt strike methods to gain their point, but will carry on an aggressive campaign to obtain the desired increase.

DOING WELL AT METROPOLIS. Pritchett and Mason, the two young men now in jail at Metropolis for the shooting of Constable Grant Rankin at Brookport several weeks ago, according to last reports are doing well and it is thought they will be able to appear for the trial in the August term of circuit court. Pritchett did the shooting and will go rather hard with him. He is not convicted to the general public and the session will be held open. All caring to attend are invited.

The board of health will hold a session the first part of next week. No questions other than the sanitary and the water questions will be brought up. The meeting will be of interest to the general public and the session will be held open. All caring to attend are invited.

BOWLING GREEN, July 22.—Joseph Higginbotham shot and killed Will James Hines today in a street fight. They are both prominent men.

JUDGE BARR BETTER

Judge John W. Barr, formerly U. S. district judge of this district, was stricken with paralysis Saturday at Louisville, but the attack was mild and he is now able to walk about. His many friends here will be pleased to learn that his illness is not serious and that the indications are that he will soon recover.

CORN GOES TO 50

Chicago, July 22.—Corn went to fifty-nine today. The funeral took place this evening.

The Paducah fire department needs two additional horses for the new machines recently purchased, but it is said that some of the committees are opposed to buying them and that the department will be crippled by having to make out with the present horses. Nothing has yet been done towards purchasing them, and it is said nothing will be done.

If this is true it is very unfortunate. The plan proposed by the committee who oppose the purchase is to have the old truck taken out and if it is found when the scene of configuration is reached that the aerial ladder is needed to unscrew, drive the horses back to the station, hitch them up to the aerial truck and take it out. In the meantime the building might burn, but apparently that is a matter for concern does not seem worthy of consideration.

Chief Wood says that when the aerial track is needed most is when a fire breaks out. It is claimed that to carry out the plan proposed by the committee oppose to buying the two additional horses, would require half an hour, and might give a fire enough headway that great damage would be entailed by the dollar.

Mayor Lang when asked what would be done today, said that no additional horses would be bought. Five horses, four regular and one extra, are all we are going to feed at Central station," he said. "No more will be bought while I am in the board of health.

There is another effort in foot to have a wire inspector for Paducah. One of the results here, it is alleged, was caused by an electric wire, and while the fire departments and insurance men have for the past several years made every effort to have an inspector, none has ever been provided.

At the council has failed to take up the matter, it is probable that it will be asked to express its sentiments at no distant date.

The Illinois Central railroad has agreed to build the fill on its property just east of the new fill the city is building on Teleshaw street, where the bridge was recently condemned. Supt. Wallace was here yesterday and promised that he would do everything possible to comply with any reasonable request the city may make and assured the mayor that the fill will be built.

Licence Inspector Davis will probably leave tomorrow for Granson Springs for his health, to be absent a week or longer. His work is of such a nature that it can wait until he returns.

Major Lang stated this morning that he will prosecute all persons who mistreat animals. He is a great lover of all animals, and says that people who witness violations of the law will confer a favor on him by reporting the same at police headquarters, and warrants will be issued against them at once. He now has under consideration two cases, one in which a horse was driven to death and another where a horse was brutally beaten by a driver on the lever.

The board of health will hold a session the first part of next week. No questions other than the sanitary and the water questions will be brought up. The meeting will be of interest to the general public and the session will be held open. All caring to attend are invited.

THE ALLARD LOSS.

The total loss in the Allard fire at Brookport has not been estimated but the following is a list of the contents that were destroyed: Eleven head of horses, four cows, ten hogs, and farm machinery, last year's crop of hay, corn and all the chickens amounting to several dozen. Mrs. Allard held a policy for $600 on the barn but the tenant of the farm, Jerry Crumbaugh, colored, held no insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated by crop shooters who had been smoking and who had probably left a spark from their pipes.

In the business, however, to evince no much surprise. It's a part of the newspaper man's life to be blessed with such pleasant vicissitudes.

Judge Sanders has not decided that gutters can be made the receptacle of filthy water. There are strict laws against nuisances, and whenever a gutter becomes a nuisance, and the people affected by it cause to do so, they can swear out warrant, and a fine will have to be assessed, if the sanitary officers and health authorities did their duty they would get warrants in all such cases of which there are plenty.

The Populists have apparently concluded that they have nothing to boast by toadying to the Democrats. They are reorganizing everywhere with the intention of going it alone. They will form more combinations with a forlorn hope of being tilted over into power on the wave of Bryan fallacies. They can get as much by keeping in the middle of the road.

A contemporary has discovered an "awful" gutter or two in which every conceivable kind of bacillus is found. Wonderful! If the trouble were taken it would be found that about two-thirds of the gutters in the city are in the same condition, and nothing is being done to clean them.

The elections in the Central Labor Union has been held and important developments are expected. The celebrations this year will be extensively advertised out of the city and will no doubt be well attended by delegations from the neighboring cities.

The next meeting of the Central Labor Union will be held the first Thursday in August and at this meeting the new executive committee will be appointed by President Simon. One new committee that will be appointed is the press committee which will furnish the news of the meeting to the daily press. In this way all the members of the unions will be given out and there will be no chance to get them mixed. This feature will be in many ways the success of the unions is a good move on the part of Mr. Simon who has started it.

Strangers who come to Paducah and see the treatment accorded beasts of burden and other animals are astounded at the seeming lack of feeling in people that countenance and encourage such wanton cruelty. One use is reserved where a man who drives his horses up to a fountain tank takes advantage of the animals accidentally getting their feet caught in the fountain and grain tub without giving them water. Another man who was racing a horse that died, claims that the owner when he reported that the animal was overstrained and sick, told him to drive him until he dropped and he did. Captain Joe Fowler, who is fond of riding, is seen each morning on his wheel barrow, which he has built himself, and a rug is spread over it. He is said to be a good jockey.

THE SEAMY SIDE OF IT

A Fable.

Behold now it cometh that the time is upon us when the chief woman of the household calleth her children together as a hen gathereth her brood under her wings, and departeth with them into the Far Country of the Summer Resort.

Peradventure the far country may indeed be in the remote region beyond the mountains, or it may chance to be only a few furlongs away, but wherever it lieth the chief woman and her children, before they can reach it, must cross over the river of Sodden the soft, which divideth the land of Plenty from the region of the Summer Resort, where all things are barren and full of sorrowful complaints.

Howbeit the chief woman and her children goeth gladly into this barren land with songs and bunch baskets and rejoicing of heart. They have seen pinions of the Summer Resort habitation, surrounded with great trees and much green grass, and lusty around about with many porches and the appearance of great revelry. The chief woman lieth in a wealthier bower place of forbidding look. The great trees were even swept away by the storms of the winter season and the swans that fatten in this sunnier land have fed upon the grass that grew as the green bay trees in the picture. The porches she lieth to be few and wobbly, and in all the land she can see no revelry at all, though she searcheth for it diligently.

She gathereth her children into two tall rooms where the temperature mounteth to fever heat, and setteth them to right valiantly against the wild hordes of mosquitoes which would even take the place of her habitation from her, but because of the contention she erstwhile had with the Mighty Man of the house, her husband whose shanks even now burn within her pocket, about coming to this place. She direcketh back the tears, and when she calleth up the pride of her soul to sustain her, she setteth herself to write this vessel of money making and contention.

She telleth him that she hath gained in flesh and the children are increased in stature and in grace, and she abstineth from dwelling on the bivalve and the mosquitoes that abide therein. She reserveth that she will also stay in this place a whole month, as she stoloth out to do. She maketh up her mind that she will. But as the days go on she lieth it more and more a hard task, and her heart both howsvr within her. The flesh shrinketh away from her bones daily and though she calleth sound for food there cometh from the hard heated rarer of the Summer Resort but a scant return. Her daughter wath blackberries in the road and have addid greatly to the gavety.

Her and the charm of its life winning new boy footeth on another man's green apples and melons, and her shanks go to restore the angry ones to loss. The wild cow of a nearby tribe catcheth her son into a nearby tree, where he remoueth undiscovers for a whole day and night, and while he finally walketh home a deadly snake ariseth from the ground and latches him on the leg. Her daughter falleth into the creek and cometh down in a bed of sickness, and only the mosquitoes of this forsaken place wax fat and see contentment in their days.

The Old Woman's heart overfloweth with anguish runneth over. Again she gathereth up her snake and son John, Mrs. Billie Campbell and son John, Misses Julia Scott, Martha Davis, Myrtle Decker, Minnie Terrell, Hartell, Moses Louis Bicker, Jr., Edison Hart, Frank Boone, Everett, Edwin Wilson, Frank

Lyon

A delightful supper was served and the evening was much enjoyed.

SMALL BLAZE THIS MORNING:

The fire department was this morning about 10 o'clock called to the home of Mrs. Eggle, near Sixth and Clay, to extinguish a small blaze in the roof. It originated from the flue and the damage will amount to only a few dollars.

THE ALLARD LOSS:

The total loss in the Allard fire at Brookport has not been estimated, but the following is a list of the contents that were destroyed: Eleven head of horses, four cows, ten hogs, and farm machinery, last year's crop of hay, corn and all the chickens amounting to several dozen. Mrs. Allard held a policy for $300 on the barn but the tenant of the farm, Jerry Trumbrough, colored, had no insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated by craps shooters who had been smoking and who had probably left a spark from their pipes.

THE NEWEST SHIRT-WAISTS.

These show a diagonal direction of the fabric from the shoulder front to the lower front. This effect is secured without cutting the fabric bias, thus lady friends can see pictures of these styles in our Paper Pattern Department, as the August 10, 1912, issue, just received, contains several illustrations of this newest effect.

Another style of shirt waist is that called the "Grecian Pouch," in which the front is very long, and by being caught up in the belt produces the pouch effect.

He thought maybe he could possibly stand it a night or two, but was sure he would have enough after that.

The misguided liver man was doomed to disappointment, however, for the youngster remained several nights, took all orders sent in over the phone and made a first class night watchman. The proprietor finally had to tell him that he believed he would wait before working any more at night until his mother returned to the city, and part him off to the hospital.

He says the boy's all right, though, and has the proper std. rating. When he gets a little older he can be general manager.

THE SUN'S DAILY STORY.

NICK'S GOOD TURN.

By EVALINA RASBURY Copyright, 1901, by the Daily Story Pub Co

In my own hand? Oh, God, don't tell it! I am big, ter, twa my wick-ed jealousy that done it.

Her renewed cries for help brought at last from behind a great gum tree a trembling little lad with a scared face, a guilty conscience and a gun.

At a look from the girl he bounded away in search for the succor that was seeming a life's span in coming.

"Pull back the curtains, Susie, and let me see you the green trees and the sunlight. Come here, child, why now? get as thin as we durin' them awful days of austerities?" I didn't know.

It was in you to grieve so, Susie, sweetheart; it's all over now. You just bend down lower. I want to whisper a secret in your ear. I love you, Nick, just because he is your brother, and I mean because he is my good boy when he put that load of birdshot in me, fer I made up my mind to walk away from you that day to sell not myself an' leave the swamps on 'you.' Yes, leave that ever peddled a ducor on Tyrone."

"Hugh, Frank and Susie tenderly, as she stroked the wasted hand she said, 'I ain't worthy us sich low as you are, don't stop me, she moaned.

The girl's pulse quickened, and her heart relented a little at the man's words and manner, but no trace of the softening of her anger was in her voice as she replied, "Deeds count for morn's words with me, Frank Swain; twas only las' Friday that cousin Ed saw you talcum that Amos gal aglow when you well known I was plum set again your speakin' to her."

"So Ed tol' you, did he?" was asked with rising wrath and a queer little bitch in his voice.

"Yes, he has been me say many a time I alius entreated to be fust with the man I marry an' I pose he didn't want ter see me foaled."

"Mighty kind us Ed considerin' he well, I affer him to say no? In more about the matter but this that poor unfortunate gal was in deep trouble an' her father been 'one in my mitt han's' laid up with the rheumatism an' her a stranger here she no nekkely come to me. I couldn't refuse to listen to er person statement as their infidelity could fit. I couldn't turn my back on a defenseless creature, could I, an' a woman at that?"

But you've turned your back on me, Frank. I can't tell you the truth, but God's sake don't say that, my dearest, oh, why th'!"

With a sob, she got up then to the Amos' old, I'm done with you see here, when this chip comes floatin' up old Tyrone you may know where fer got an' never give it off then."

She threw the bare sprigshop her nervous fingers had been chafing hot and into the current of the river where boulders tangled, numbing the flood it rapidly floated downstream and out of sight behind the head at Jack's Landing.

For some seconds they both stood looking at the spot where until a while ago white foam had been.

Then the girl went to the Amos' old, I'm done with you see here, when this chip comes floatin' up old Tyrone you may know where fer got an' never give it off then."

Now that she was alone—Frank had taken her at her word. She put up feelings in tears or her heart would break. Undoubtedly this chance interview had proved unprofitable, she had lost her bet and he had shown no sign of conscious guilt.

THE ALLARD LOSS.

The total loss in the Allard fire at Brookport has not been estimated but the following is a list of the contents that were destroyed: Eleven head of horses, four cows, ten hogs, and farm machinery, last year's crop of hay, corn and all the chickens amounting to several dozen. Mrs. Allard held a policy for $300 on the barn but the tenant of the farm, Jerry Crumbanch, colored, held no insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated by cratshoers who had been smoking and who had probably left a spark from their pipes.
